47. Mike:

- Do you know that they are going to start rationing water?

Cindy:

- Yes. I happened to hear it on the news this morning. They said that the reservoir had dipped below half its capacity, and the volume of water entering the reservoir is the smallest in the last ten years.

Mike:

- It's not surprising, actually, because we haven't had as much rain as usual this year.

Cindy:

- Well, if it could rain even a drop, my flowers would certainly come back. The soil has been baked so hard.

Mike:

- ----

A) From now on, the best thing to do is to water your garden regularly every day.

B) Forget it. It looks as if it's going to get a lot worse before it gets better.

C) You know, even before the rationing announcement, they suddenly turned off the water yesterday without a warning.

D) I don't blame you. Why don't you hire a gardener to help you?

E) Just remember, I told you to pay the water bills on time.

49. John:

- Each time we switch to Daylight Savings Time, I always forget to put the clock forward an hour.

Michael:

- Me, too. I've always had problems with Springforward and Fall-back.

John:

- I think adjusting ourselves twice a year is harmful to our long-term health, too.

Michael:

- You know, with modern technology, we could slowly ease into Daylight Savings Time by digitally having clocks add a few seconds a day for three months in the spring and the reverse in the autumn.

John:

- ----

A) Then the change would be imperceptible, provided all clocks moved in the same manner.

B) I really love that first evening after Daylight Savings Time has taken effect.

C) It is indeed busywork, and it has caused me to miss important things a couple of times.

D) My clock makes the changeover automatically, so I have no problem.

51. Joanne:

- Hi, Tom! You look worried. What's on your mind?

Tom:

- I really need that job I've interviewed for, but I just found out that there are many younger applicants. I guess my chances are pretty slim now.

Joanne:

- I wouldn't say that! You are older but highly qualified and experienced. I am sure you will get it!

Tom:

- But I still think that any younger applicant has an advantage over me.

Joanne:

- ----

A) Those young guys may only be trying to get their foot in the door so they can move on to better positions later. Most employers know this.

B) Anyway, face facts: you are eligible for retirement, and that field has moved on without you.

C) You're right! One of the most difficult things an older jobseeker has to deal with is the younger competition.

D) Having retirement income, you should start out at an entry-level salary, which should be satisfying for you.

E) Just use your common sense. Have you ever seen anyone over 40 doing that job? There's a reason for that.

Scottish philosopher and historian David Hume emerged as an economist also with the publication of his Political Discourses. The famous Adam Smith was a friend of his and may have been influenced by Hume: they had similar principles, and both were very good at illustrating and supporting these from history. Although Hume did not formulate a complete system of economic theory, as did Smith in his Wealth of Nations, he introduced several of the new ideas around which the "classical economics" of the 18th century was built. His economic philosophy can be understood from his main arguments: that wealth consists not of money but of commodities; that the amount of money in circulation should be kept related to the amount of goods in the market; and that poor nations impoverish the rest because they do not produce enough to be able to take much part in trade. Beyond this, he urged society to welcome the shift from an agricultural to an industrial economy, without which civilization could not be achieved.

57. According to Hume, ---.

- A) rich nations should produce more to be able to feed their citizens
- B) rich nations should provide financial help to poorer nations
- C) poor nations have a negative effect on richer nations
- D) poverty can be overcome by increasing the production capacity of rich nations
- E) poor nations can take part in international trade only when rich nations are impoverished

58. According to the text, Adam Smith ----.

- A) was very much under the influence of Hume
- B) formulated a complete system of economic theory
- C) had ideas that conflicted with Hume's
- D) was uncertain about Hume's principles
- E) had a great effect on Hume

59. According to the text, Hume ----.

- A) was against the ideas on which the "classical economics" of the 18th century was based
- B) misunderstood the principles that his friend Adam Smith believed in
- C) was not the only one who excelled at illustrating and supporting his principles from the past
- D) argued that money in circulation had to be barely related to the amount of goods in the market
- E) stated that civilization required advances in both agricultural and industrial production

60. Hume's belief was that poverty was mainly caused by ----.

- A) the amount of money in circulation
- B) the scarcity of produced goods
- C) the abuse of poor nations by rich ones
- D) the lack of a complete economic theory
- E) Adam Smith's poor grasp of economics

The people of Hong Kong have been experiencing an identity crisis ever since the British returned the colony to China in 1997 and it became a Special Administrative Region with special privileges (for 50 years). Although they are proud of their Chinese ethnicity, culturally they have always felt overwhelmingly Western and therefore much different from their cousins on the mainland. Now they have a new worry: a growing threat to Hong Kong's economic success. The Chinese government recently announced its plan to turn the city of Shanghai into a global financial and shipping centre by 2020, a move that is seen as weakening Hong Kong's traditional and profitable position as international gateway to mainland China. Even worse, China's friendlier relationship with former enemy Taiwan is already reducing transit commerce through Hong Kong. After an economic contraction of almost 8% earlier this year, Hong Kong is feeling real pain, and the jobless rate could approach record levels. So the normally hands-off local government has sprung into action: it has announced two rounds of tax cuts and various handouts to the poor and to businesses. In addition, the city's long-term planners have recommended that Hong Kong's government focus on developing six fields – including education, environmental-related industries, and medical technology – in which Hong Kong already has an edge.

61. According to the passage, the Hong Kong government ----.

- A) has been investing heavily in medical-technology companies
- B) views the government of Taiwan as its enemy
- C) supports the plan to make Shanghai a global financial and shipping centre
- D) is planning to bring about a rise in the jobless rate in the city
- E) usually does not interfere in the local economy

62. We can infer from the passage that for many years ----.

- A) Hong Kong has made a lot of money from others' trading with China
- B) Hong Kong has been suffering from severe economic contraction
- C) the Chinese government has pressured the people of Hong Kong to give up their Western ways
- D) China and Taiwan have enjoyed friendly relations
- E) the Hong Kong government has given out money to the poor people of the city

63. The passage points out that Hong Kongers' identity crisis - ----.

- A) arises from their having lived under British colonialism in the past
- B) is related to their communications with their families on the mainland
- C) is closely linked with their city's economic downturn
- D) has been made worse with the emergence of Shanghai as a future competitor
- E) did not exist before 1997

64. We learn from the passage that Hong Kong's long-term planners ----.

- A) hope to give the city a natural advantage in education, environmental-related industries, and medical technology
- B) identified six economic areas deserving of government support
- C) advised the government to carry out two rounds of tax cuts
- D) are concerned about how to meet the challenge represented by Taiwan
- E) are planning to boost the city's economy by 2020 in order to be equal to Shanghai

On July 1, 2009, the US state of California began enforcing a new menu-labelling law that requires chain restaurants to post on their menus the calories contained in their food items. Three other states – Oregon, Maine, and Massachusetts – have already passed similar regulations, as have 11 city and county governments. The trend has gathered strength quickly, mostly because of concern about the nation's expanding waistlines. The next step is to deploy the practice nationally, and the Congress is about to debate such a law. Pressure for this type of move is coming from the obese, who represent more than a third of American adults, and their defenders. Overweight people often struggle to estimate the number of calories they consume when eating out and make mistakes when calculating how much food they should order. Proponents of menu labelling hope that knowing what is in their food may direct people to healthier items. In Los Angeles, for example, officials optimistically predict that menu labelling could prevent nearly 40% of the annual weight gain there. However, the effect of menu labelling on dietary choices remains unclear, and the regulations are too new to produce much evidence. Furthermore, some critics of the trend believe the public-health benefits of the new legislation are irrelevant. For them, the new regulations are welcome as part of a consumer's wide-ranging right to know.

65. The passage indicates that the new menulabelling law in California has the potential to ----.

- A) force chain restaurants there to offer less food to the public
- B) encourage the habit of overeating in the population at large
- C) persuade other states to consider passing similar laws affecting chain restaurants
- D) help people become more health-conscious
- E) reduce the population in that state by nearly half

66. We can infer from the passage that obese people in the US ----.

- A) want to control the number of calories they are ingesting in chain restaurants
- B) are under attack by other Americans
- C) eat most of their meals at chain restaurants
- D) have difficulty making mathematical calculations
- E) have their own special representatives in the US Congress

67. The passage informs us that menu-labelling laws ----.

- A) were passed in the other US states after California enforced its version of the law
- B) will all be cancelled when the US Congress passes a national requirement
- C) are a sign of the reaction to Americans' getting fatter and fatter
- D) will result in the disappearance of obese Americans in the future
- E) forbid fat people to eat too much in chain restaurants

68. The passage points out that the proponents of menu labelling ----.

- A) don't really know if it will be successful
- B) often have to defend the lifestyle choices of obese Americans
- C) are themselves regular customers of chain restaurants
- D) oppose the tendency of Los Angeles residents to gain weight every year
- E) believe much of the new law is irrelevant

Although an extension of the worldwide ban on ivory exports to discourage the illegal killing of African elephants has been greeted enthusiastically in many places, the rhinoceroses (rhinos) of southern and eastern Africa are still paying with their lives for their horns, which remain prized by the Chinese for their medicinal and aphrodisiac qualities, and by the Yemenis for making dagger handles. According to a group, called Traffic, that monitors the wildlife trade throughout the world, this illegal business is on the rise. Last month, the group called for stronger international cooperation along smuggling routes and for more secure management of legal horn stocks. For its part, Zimbabwe, where there are a lot of illegal killings, has taken a very radical decision: it says it will start dehorning its rhinos. Today only five species of rhino survive in Africa and Asia. In the past, especially in the 19th and 20th centuries, they were slaughtered on a large scale by white hunters. By the 1960s, fewer than 70,000 black rhinos were left in Africa, and, over the next two decades, illegal hunters wiped out 96% of them. But since 1995, thanks to vigorous conservation efforts, the number of black rhinos has gone up again, to around 3,700. The number of white rhinos has nearly doubled over the same period, to over 14,500.

69. As one learns from the passage, black rhinos in Africa ----.

- A) are preferred by the Yemenis over white rhinos for making dagger handles
- B) are so much in demand for medical uses that the government of Zimbabwe is devoting more resources to conserving them
- C) were hunted almost to extinction in the past by Chinese doctors
- D) were almost completely exterminated during the 1970s and 1980s as a result of illegal hunting
- E) and white rhinos in Asia are the only surviving species of rhinoceros in the world

70. As is pointed out in the passage, there is ----.

- A) absolute indifference in the world towards Zimbabwe's decision to dehorn its rhinos
- B) a full international consensus on the ending of the wildlife trade in Zimbabwe
- C) widespread illegal killing of wild animals in Zimbabwe
- D) now wide support for a new policy of limited legal killing of African elephants
- E) today an ongoing fall in the number of African rhinos, especially in Zimbabwe

71. It is clear from the passage that the international prohibition of ivory exports ----.

- A) has been strongly opposed by the government of Zimbabwe
- B) has been totally ignored by the governments of China and Yemen
- C) has been in force throughout Africa since the early 1960s
- D) has completely prevented the illegal hunting of elephants in Africa and Asia
- E) will be continued, and this has been widely welcomed

72. According to the passage, in view of the growth of the illegal wildlife trade, the group Traffic ----.

- A) is concentrating on shutting down the Chinese and Yemeni wildlife markets
- B) has put a great deal of pressure on African countries, especially Zimbabwe, to begin dehorning their rhino populations
- C) has increased its involvement in the campaign to save African elephants from extinction
- D) is urging the international community to step up its efforts to stop the smuggling
- E) aims to have governments legalize what is now the illegal business of wildlife trade

Many governments these days feel that the path to happiness for society as a whole lies through spending on the welfare of its youngest members: their health, education, and general well-being. A recent report from a leading international organization, the OECD, examined these efforts among its 30 member countries in order to learn if the aim was being achieved. Specifically, the researchers investigated 21 variables that were then grouped into six main categories. The results surprisingly showed that while some kinds of spending on children do work, many should be improved or scrapped. Also, total government spending per child was seen to vary considerably, as did outcomes, but the correlation between these was not strong. Moreover, the differences in spending levels among countries were not directly linked to their relative levels of prosperity. For example, rich Sweden is, as expected, kind to its children, but poorish Hungary turns out to be generous, too. Up-and-coming South Korea might be expected to be a bit reluctant to part with so much money, but the stinginess of Switzerland is totally unexpected. Children's lobbies always want more funds, but the OECD report suggests that more money does not reliably yield better results. America has one of the highest levels of spending per child, and among the worst outcomes. In contrast, Australia spends less, with better outcomes.

73. The passage points out that an OECD member country's level of prosperity in relation to other members' ----.

- A) will determine if its child-welfare programmes should be improved or scrapped
- B) is associated with the constant efforts of children's lobbies to obtain more funds
- C) generally convinces it to be more generous in providing for its children
- D) depends on its geographic location
- E) was shown to have almost no connection to its amount of spending on child welfare

74. The passage makes it clear that typical expectations about a country's spending on child welfare ----.

- A) often match the reality found by the researchers
- B) can easily turn out to be wrong
- C) are essentially the same for most of the OECD
- D) cannot be separated from its record in the six main categories
- E) do not take into consideration all the 21 variables studied by the researchers

75. According to the passage, the OECD carried out its investigation of child welfare in its members ----.

- A) to see if their stated goals were being reached
- B) because many governments believe that spending on child welfare leads to societal happiness
- C) in order to learn where government funds directed at child welfare were being wasted
- D) to prove that more spending on child welfare guarantees positive results
- E) despite the fact that a key correlation was weak

76. The passage mentions the case of Australia in order to demonstrate ----.

- A) a contrast with other members of the OECD
- B) the resistance of some OECD members to the pressures coming from children's lobbies
- C) the similarities between it and America in terms of their child-welfare policies
- D) the wisdom of the Swiss government's decisions affecting child welfare in Switzerland
- E) how spending relatively less on child welfare doesn't necessarily produce harmful results

He is young, dark, and handsome, with a beautiful light tenor voice, and he swept the Latin Grammy Awards in 2008. But should Juan Esteban Aristizabal, better known as Juanes, perform his songs at an upcoming "peace concert" in the Cuban capital, Havana? The debate over this Colombian rock star, who is based in the US city of Miami, has been raging on that city's Spanish-language radio and television shows. Older Cuban-Americans, who left Cuba in the immediate aftermath of the 1959 revolution there, vehemently oppose the concert. They argue that it is just the latest attempt by the Cuban regime to manipulate public opinion. Traditionally, these older exiles have held all the political power in Miami. But younger ones are pushing back, especially when it comes to the arts. Beyond the overall Cuban-American community, the Juanes concert is seen as a potential great turning point in US-Cuban relations. A successful outcome could smooth the way for a further softening in American policy towards Cuba. Artists other than Juanes have attempted this kind of bridge-building with Cuba before; for example, left-leaning musicians like Bonnie Raitt and The Police appeared there in 1999, but they had an overtly political agenda. However, Juanes himself, who is widely admired for his humanitarian work in his native Colombia, denies having any thought of politics. "My only message is one of peace, of humanitarianism, and of tolerance," he said recently.

77. The passage states that the relationship between the US and Cuban governments ----.

- A) depends on the approval of the older Cuban- American exiles
- B) has been affected by the debate over Juanes taking place in Miami's Spanish-language media
- C) will change now that younger Cuban-Americans are disagreeing with the older generation
- D) may become friendlier if the Juanes concert in Havana goes well
- E) was greatly improved by the appearance in Havana of Bonnie Raitt and The Police

78. We learn from the passage that older Cuban-Americans oppose Juanes's concert because ----.

- A) they believe the Cuban government is using him for propaganda purposes
- B) Miami's Spanish-language radio and television programs have been severely criticizing it
- C) they are disturbed by the younger Cuban-Americans' artistic choices
- D) they left Cuba soon after the 1959 revolution.
- E) they never want to see a further softening in American policy towards Cuba

79. In the passage, it is clear that Juanes ----.

- A) wishes he were Cuban instead of Colombian
- B) claims to have no political purpose with his planned concert
- C) has a tense, hostile relationship with the Cuban-American community in Miami
- D) is more concerned with his own career than with helping people in need
- E) was invited to perform in Havana because of the Latin Grammy Awards he had won earlier

80. We can infer from the passage that the overall Cuban-American community ----.

- A) loves pro-Cuban musical artists like Bonnie Raitt and The Police
- B) believes that Juanes is lying about his reasons for performing in Havana
- C) is much more emotional about US-Cuban relations than the wider American public is
- D) does not speak or understand English very well
- E) has almost no interest in the arts
